For many people, Riverside, California, means auto racing. Riverside International Raceway distinguishes Riverside as one of the great racing cities in the United States. With the tearing down of Ontario Motor Speedway, RIR has taken on Indy car racing, too. This adds to the excitement and prestige. Riverside Poly High also enjoys prestige within their own town. The combination is awesome as we look for many years of great racing at RIR, and continuing top-notch education with the widest range of student interests in Riverside.

Welcome race fans! Life in the fast lane at Poly High School has begun. Speed, agility, and a flair for life on the racy side is what it takes to last in the fast-paced society at Poly. With severe budget cuts Poly students had to cope with losing a few favorite teachers, cutting down drama productions, and the overall handling of activities on a tight budget. This tension was revealed through competition in sports; the football team had a shaky pre-season which unified the school in support of the team. Through it all, Poly students united and stood in the winners circle after a great race through 1982.

Changing Years . . . Changing Gears

Riveride or, acted as the place for leading the students of Poly High through her year. The green flag was waved on September 14 and 1981-82 was underway. Change characterized the field of activities this year more. Several entities were sanctioned the main staple being the Freshmen Learning Assembly. Its definition name is a shock to the fans, especially the Senior. New entities however provided an unexpected spark of interest. The newly created Science Club gave members a chance to promote their learning interests. The Timmy Family let fans discuss philosophy without a classroom atmosphere. The Computer Club brought some advanced technology into the room. Humanities and Letterman's Club spun out of the box, dropping out of the race. Riverside Poly had the promise of a great year at the races.

Fun In The Sun . . . But Wind?

As the sun rose on October 17, Poly students wiped the sweat off their brows and the remnants of two weeks of footbouncing left their minds. Floats were completed and the armadillo of Homecoming 1981, Space Odyssey, was seen. The wind posed major problems, however. As parades of floats were seen, scattered along the parade route from Gage Middle School to Poly. Not only did the wind affect the floats, but it produced problems for the cheerleaders and flag girls. At the pep rally, students were in their disbelief when the Publications float did not receive an award. The festivities continued with music and several booths with plenty of food. CSF's Punk Rock Cake walk proved a big hit once again, as it gave students a chance to have fun and satisfy their appetites. Although the wind was a factor, it did not stand in the way of Poly students and a good time.

For the first time in many years Poly students had various choices for the type of music they listened to. Students may have stuck to the sound of the 70's disco, or they could have listened to the ever popular rock n' roll ranging from mellow rock to heavy metal. Other folks enjoyed the country western sound. For many, it was the first time when everyone could make a choice of music. This was new with the school and a new kind of dancing. Students were also proud to find a place to listen to the music, and many loved the type of music which entertained everyone.

OUR PRIDE IS SHOWING

According to Mr. Mitsch, Director of Athletics, "Poly's athletic program is over all the most outstanding in our league. Our teams have been in the playoffs more than any other school in the Ivy League." This is because of the caliber of students that make Poly Pride a household word. Many athletes practiced over the summer. Dan Benner played summer league at UCR, "to improve as much as possible and to be more effective during the school season." Along with fine athletic teams, Poly has a fine academic program. "At random, the first choice that comes to mind for sound academic preparation in the community," says counselor Ms. Monge. Another phase of campus life is the dollar lunches (up from seventy-five cents the previous year). Poly has one of the best cafeterias in the district. Quality has been synonymous with Poly — nothing can stop her now.

No Where Else But Poly

Students competed in many races, but races for grades and races for social acceptance were foremost in their minds. Their long range goals sometimes took the back seat during extracurricular activities. The students often called time out from school work on Friday nights, gathering in the winners circle at Straw Hat where the gallant competitors of Poly High ate pizza. This gave them the much needed mental and physical energy to keep striving along the rough road ahead. Fast food chains were popular for lunch breaks. Del Taco nosed out Naugles and Carls Jr. as the most popular pit stop. Students sidelined themselves to develop other interests such as snow skiing, water skiing, dancing, playing musical instruments and working. Poly students crossed the wire in front of their way to becoming champions in all areas of student life.

THE CONCERT SCENE

Is that RUSH? " cries a disappointed fan while sitting next to the lightmen at a Rush concert. Likely enough, he bought his ticket at Ticketron. Unfortunately, there are alternate places to buy tickets. One is DJs on Arlington. To the consumer, these activities are far from inexpensive.

Many students last summer spent pay checks, parents' money, or even their college fund to see musical groups that they like best. Beach balls, frisbees and other such excitements increased the excitement to subpeak as the musicians appeared and played their songs. Aki Lippit, who saw various concerts this past year said, "I go because I like the groups and the atmosphere." Jon Reed, a sophomore, goes to concerts "to see the groups and the people" whether it's worth it to one depends upon his tastes. Make up your own mind, but remember one thing: be sure if they'll still be together next year.

 One of the many interesting projects was to create a greenhouse. They also took an excursion to California. If students still were looking for something more, this year also marked the birth of the Science Club. The Science Club allowed students to see many trips to observe wildlife and nature.
 Being part of our everyday routine at school,
 the many interesting possibilities of English are usually overlooked. English has classes from the basic grammar to English Honors, missing nothing between. English Honors stuand other Los Angeles area museums, but gave oral reports and listened to guest special interest in English was Independent

Qualifying For the Race

The bell-ringing class is over. For many it is only the beginning. Doctors, assistants, nurses, and secretaries were just a few of the occupations students rushed off to after school. Work Experience, the largest class on campus, allowed students to earn credits while working, and for those who needed it, permission was given to work past 10 p.m. on weeknights. Miss Smith, the director of the class, mentioned the students' common remark in the working world: "My guest speaker and lecturer is small." It was Colleen Duncan, a student in WE 501, who said, "I need Work Experience now, so as to be certain, don't mind the extra credit." ROP, although similar to work experience in many ways, was more for the student who wanted apprenticeship in a field he planned to go into after high school. In ROP, students receive no pay, but more credits. An alternative to working off-campus was being an aide for either the office or a teacher. The student, while learning valuable information, received credit.

With the morning's first light, the faithful cars zoomed off with their latest set of racers and grey-haired instructors. The name is feared by more drivers than anything else. The course, of course, was Driver's Education, instructed by Mr. Elliott, who incidentally no longer accompanies kids on the road, the class was designed to give the student lessons both in the law and safety, as well as basic maintenance of the automobile. Ellen Butki, now a senior, looks back upon Driver's Ed. with horror. She says, "It wasn't my driving I was worried about, it was the other people in the car that I had to drive with."

Talents Discovered In The Arts

The belief one has of an artist is that he or she is a genius, a person who can do anything, but there are many more careers to be had in the arts than just being an artist. Many have the experience of being in classes where students learn how to make jewelry, stained glass, and ceramic. But there were also classes in less delicate forms of art. Auto shop provides the student with workspace and tools to repair and improve his own racing machine. Wood shop, Photography and Silkscreen, and Architecture supply ample opportunity for the students to delve into their favorite subjects. "It's a really fun class," says Terrie Ward about Ceramics, "but don't plan to leave the class as neat as when you came." On the other end of the arts spectrum are both theatre arts and foreign languages. Foreign language gave a wide selection of languages to choose from. Penny O'Hanlon, who prides herself on her grace with languages, can speak German, French, Welsh, Russian, and of course, English. She says, "The only problem I have is that I frequently find myself getting confused and speaking the wrong language at the wrong time." The foreign language classes frequently performed skits and have been known to sing Christmas carols for other classes. Theatre Arts supplied students with both the chance to act in small plays, monologues, and improvisations, as well as stage construction and the arts of make-up and costume design. Students were also given the opportunity to work with theatre productions.

Around The Final Bend . . .

College. After graduation and a summer full of memories, several students began to enter the education field. Others went to college for two or three years, then came back to work for JCR or RCC while still in high school. With the help of Mrs. Lyons, the High School-University Program coordinator, students were accepted to the school early. "I took a linguistics class because I was bored with high school and needed a class that would allow me the freedom to acquire the knowledge I wanted," says Kathleen Donlan about her JCR class. Seniors who did not start their college life early suffered from confusion around November, just when college applications were due. To help this spreading disease, the counselors sponsored a college day which allowed for both students and representatives from California colleges to meet and discuss their offerings. Another student aid is the Resource Center. Run by Mrs. Kreigh, the center offered pamphlets on all types of schools and occupations, as well as a computer to help link students' interests with appropriate colleges.

On a slightly different track was College Bowl. While College Bowl was an extracurricular organization open to all high school students, it generally attracted the intellectual trivia buffs who liked to battle wits competitively. Co-chaired by Scott Cogswell and Stephen Herschler, three-year members, College Bowl met Tuesdays after school in informal sparring sessions. Teams selected at random, challenged each other across the College Bowl boards, and lights flashed on and off as questions were tossed out for grabs. Poly, one of sixteen area high schools invited to JCR College Bowl competition each spring, has established an enviable reputation, winning the championship every odd year.

The Chamber Singers had their hands full with thirty performances during a three-week period during the holiday season. Their repertoire consisted of fifteen songs, French, English, and Latin. # Poly Students Enjoy Varied Club Activities

The Math and Computer Club brought together the growing group of people interested in increasing their knowledge of computers and computer-related math while having fun doing it. Members ranged from people who owned complete Apple computer systems to those who had never used any computer. Computer club planned an active schedule of trips to various facilities with computer labs as well as JCR and the Inter Production Laboratory.

cluded last year and will continue to be included in the yearbook for 1987-88.

Founded last year around a backtable in the library from an intense pseudo-intellectual analytical discussion about registration, the Timov Family has risen to be a controversial philosophy club. Viewed equally with awe and disgust by the school, the Timov members avidly philosophize on a whole range of topics from the significance of hair to the importance of bias rape in today's society. The Timovs have brought fresh spirit and creativity into high school clubs.

The Bicycle Club was founded at Poly to include one of the largest number of students who ride their bikes to school every day and enjoy it. Members found making a relaxing way to spend time with their friends and meet new people. Mrs. Covell, advisor, and Jon Cave, president, planned several trips in the Riverside and surrounding area.

Another club that has grown in stride with the Timov Family was Bear Tracks. Many of the members also philosophized with the Timov Family. The staff met weekly to evaluate prose, poetry, essays and artwork submitted by Poly students. Their annual publication, distributed in June, is a collection of Poly's finest creative efforts.

BSU

The Black Student Union (BSU) has been a leading force in the Black community, working to address the needs of Black students who had been ignored and alienated from the community. A major goal of the BSU has been to bridge the gap between the Black community and the school through the efforts of teachers and parents.

CSF — Helping Others

Scholarships For Service are awarded to CSF and to the top 100 boys in the district. The next 100 boys are more students who earned just one A and one B and did not get their work helping others. They are high school seniors who are not going to college but are helping others. The last 100 earned just four dollars a month for their work. And, with honoring the club members, they are at home and have access to the recreation facilities from College Day. Every year the highest for CSF member is from the pro Essey and for the A CSF right.

AFS Roams The World

AFS is designed to involve the exchange students in activities at school as well as in the community. Throughout the year AFS raised money from its Homecoming come-doodle sale and its annual Valentine Day Carnival program. This money helps to send Poly students to foreign countries for either a summer or a year. From all around the world come Lea Armstrong of Australia, Pelle Bachman of Sweden, Pradit Sirijindapun of Thailand and Kate Robb-Webb of England. These students taught Poly students about their home lands while learning about California life. Foreign AFS members not only participate in activities around school such as slide presentations of their home countries, but they also have parties and weekends where they meet with other exchange students from all of Riverside County to talk about their experiences.

1. CSF officers: Jill Reeves, Treasurer; Jonel Strube, President; Patty Endo, Secretary; Carolyn Strong, Social Chairman; Ester Moran, Vice-President; and Advisor Eugene Miller are jokingly hounded by the club.
2. Scott Cogswell, Kathy Donlan, and Stephen Herschler wait patiently for their next CSF meeting.
3. Scribe Tom Lennan, decorates the walls with the "rightful" passages.
4. Pat Malone thinks about the upcoming Disneyland trip.
5. Pelle Bachman waits to speak with his teacher.
6. AFS President Peter Nixon makes Kate Robb-Webb and Dir Sirijindapun feel at home.

Girls Athletic Association is a club for girls in grades 6-12. The girls begin by working on their own projects. They must be on a team to be a part of the team manager. In addition, a team manager must be on a team to be a part of the team manager. The girls also work on their GAA projects. At the end of the year, the girls are given a certificate of service and money for their projects. Earning 10 service points will earn the girls a certificate of service.

Points are earned by selling candy, after school helping with the room, and selling tickets. Pancake Breakfasts, tickets, fundraisers which were used to increase knowledge of the girls. Girls who are in the GAA for a full year will receive a certificate of service and a certificate of service. Running, skiing, yachting. The 1981-82 KOALA Staff raced toward their final deadline to give you the book you are holding now. Working on KOALA staff gave members real experience in how professional publications are put together. They experienced the frustrations of deadlines and the fun of having a part in recording a year at Poly. The KOALA staff is divided into seven separate staffs which act independently to bring together the yearbook. Students are as Drum major Larry Brooks led this year's rally, technical and marching band. The band and flag team participated in two types of competition: a street and field. In the street competition, the band simply marched down the street like a parade. In the field competition, the band and flag performed patterns and made formations, as if they were much like the halftime performance at the football game.

The band and flag team participated in various competitions. The Carson field show, Lester Oaks Memorial Band Review, the Cal Poly Pomona field show, Antelope Valley parade and field show, and the Disneyland parade. Aside from the band, getting first place in the Carson field show and first place in the Lester Oaks Memorial Band Review, where the rally brought out 3rd place, they hosted the Riverside 500 parade.

The band has many goals, but above all, Larry Brooks says, "and they're here to do it in our best way." The Riverside 500 parade has been an excellent example of # Seniors . . .

In a CLASS by Themselves

The racers are winding around the bend of the last stretch and crossing the Class of 1982 by a nose!

The seniors faced several hurdles in 1982 which seemed to hold them back from success, but by the end of the year they proved that they possessed the class needed to put them ahead of the rest.

Homecoming events proved disappointing with the seniors being asked to leave the traditional assembly due to rowdy behavior. We showed more spirit than we ever had, but many students became over-excited, stated Mia Tobias about the termination of the Homecoming assembly. The Senior class float was also sabotaged the morning of the Jurassic seniors, however, their spirit by entering the carload of postorous seniors ruled!

At the semester, the Class of 1982 was faced with disputes over where to hold the graduation ceremony, ending up with the decision to continue the ceremony on the Poly football field.

The Class of 1982 was faced with many changes. Proposition 13 was just starting to show its effects on the school budget. Seniors were limited to five classes, unless a sixth class was needed to graduate.

Another change was the enforcement of not letting seniors graduate without passing the swimming proficiency test. Terri Daniel comments, "I felt like I came to school to get an education, not to become a beach bunny!"

This year also brought about a change in the Freshman-naming assembly. There wasn't one. Instead the Freshmen were named quietly with a short announcement over the intercom.

With thoughts of longer periods, no advisory and no money as the effect of Proposition 13, the year was best summed up by Colleen Duncan, "Although it had its drawbacks, being a senior is a final chance for you to let loose and do what you want before life catches you."

JUNIORS '83

The class of 1983 began and finished the year with a great number of accomplishments. They raced off to a terrific year by victoriously winning first prize in the Homecoming floor competition with their entry

"One Step Beyond." It was soon after that the class, led by class President Robyn Jones, rediously worked on fund raisers for the Junior Senior Prom. Such activities as the Hello Dance and Family Feud resulted in huge profits and enabled this year's Prom to be a successful spectacular event!

Even with all the fun of Homecoming and the Prom, Juniors were anxiously preparing themselves for college. Taking the PSAT, NMSQT and enrolling in advanced classes were all measures to be taken in preparation for the future. The Juniors definitely filled the year with school spirit and pride. Their success made 1981-1982 a year to remember and hopefully will be an inspiration to those classes who are following behind.

Juniors showed distinct reactions when asked, "What would be your ultimate fantasy?"

"To take a nice girl out to dinner, to a movie, take her home, and give her a good night kiss." Rick Avellino

"Tandem surfing the opposite way with Brooke Shields." David Hylton

"Honeymoon in Hawaii." Sharon Born

"Eat Grass!" Chris Grigsby and Billy Sackett

"To be trapped on a deserted island with the guy of my dreams!" Carol Avey

Sophomores '84

The Suckings started the year with their H. inween Doc Grams. After becoming their final Soccer Traves Through the Ages earned third place honors. Heidi Hofmann stated, "It was an experience which pulled us together and made us work as a team. To finance the sophomore's activities, they had a hot dog booth at the Homecoming Luncheon, washes, M&M and chocolate and the trash drive. After looking through the typical Sophomore pain Drivers Education, they were rewarded with their Poly status symbol, dos, rings. The officers of this Sophomore Class made Poly proud. The year was finished with the Suckling's Good-Bye Grams. Kathy Kjos reflected, "I guess our class is closer than it was last year. I hope it stays that way for the rest of our years here."

First timer wearing a Supra shoe. These Socks recalled some rather not-memorable moment.

During the rehearsal in Drivers Education and the next day the whole school knew about Mike Williams

"when my tennis skirt fell off in the middle of a match on the summer line court." Heid Hofmann

I remember the pep-rally when Monty Srovner and I were picked to eat an apple. We were embarrassed, wet and disqualified." Kristy Tremain

The day Kelly Reynolds was placed in a trash can by John Hoss. She was in a dress and could not get out. Susan Gibeault

When I found ten dollars in front of the library. Dave Fiacco

Tina Wulfin and I got lost in the boy's restroom because we tried to get a note away from Anthony Rhine." Lana Adams

In Drivers Education I almost ran up the curb." Troci Bice

When I wrote love letters to Tom Marantos, Mr. Buehler happened to get hold of one and read it to the class. Marionette Alvarado

1. Alligator patrons Jeff Chumell, Susan Gibeault, Dawn Lowe, and Carol Waterhouse take pride in their own brand.

2. Michelle Guirbino and Tamara Neff have something to smile about: they passed simulation.

3. Vince Velez confidently flashes the "grin" for admiring on-lookers.

FRESHMEN — CLASS OF 1985

The raising of the middle school of Puy brought new friends and teachers, with a change in school policy, grades and teacher production. However, what Freshman in 1983 way, to prepare course and in way of Puy, to however when the Freshman enter to grade 10, to the time of the important rules learned not a upgrade in upperclassman. But a certain section of the class of 1985, some the "X" team committed this foul pass and encroaching themselves in their fellow players' Airing, they, too, over wear their "joke" jokers. These jokers boast a lie of "A" which says a stud would be proud. The "X" players wear their "X" in a display of "X" and pretend to be "X" and "X" and "X" Egypt's "X" player. Come on, what kind of "X" is that? Well, spell it backwards and

"X" it up. If you dare.

The Freshmen showed spirit and desire for their willingness to work. Considering these are Eggheads, two out of three isn't bad. Their Homecoming float earned them recognition as it took second place honors. Other activities, pep rallies and fund raisers, brought together the Class of 1985. Over one hundred dollars were earned from a merchandise sale. In addition, Eggheads waded through cold waves and winds on St. Patrick's Day, ready for challenges displaying tenaciousness, cooperation, and unexpected endurance.

Members of the District Board of Education gathered at a recent Board meeting to discuss the future of the district. Principal Joseph Rile discussed the district's future and helped with the agenda. The board members who were present at the meeting were Harry Manson, Joe Ficarra, and William Mirch. Many of the district's members found guidance from the board in making major and minor decisions.

Members of the District Board of Education include Mrs. Maxine Frost, Member Dr. C. Wesley Wright, and Mrs. Ardice Bailor. The board also includes Dr. Clark Cox, Member Dr. Roger Ransom, and Mr. William Wiley.

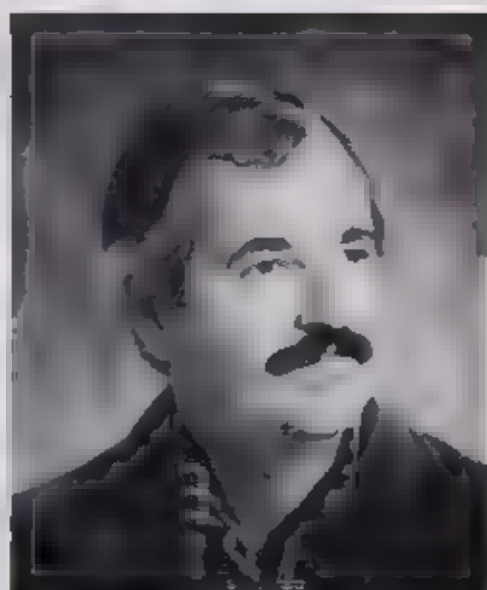

Other members of the board include Ray Harris, Member Jennifer Greene, and Principal Joseph Rile. The board is responsible for the district's future.

Students do not realize the work that the secretaries, attendance office staff, librarian, and career guidance technician did to allow a smooth year. Enrollment decreased this year, causing cutbacks in employees, so Mrs. Munoz, an administrative aide, was reassigned to the attendance office. Mrs. Gabriel had an optimistic view. The enrollment was down this year, but students seemed brighter and more cooperative. Pay's librarian Mr. Cook and Mrs. Roth, his assistant, helped students find information for research papers and novels for out-of-class reading.

When The Legends Die, Ivanhoe, Julius Caesar (though more interesting than Hamlet), A Distant Shore, Scout of Fire, Brave New World (in 1984, American teachers assigned reading; juniors raced to buy the book for Cliff's Notes to The Scarlet Letter, Moby Dick, and The Red Badge of Courage. Seniors endured through the last few books, which included Hamlet and Henry IV. Though we differed in assigned reading, all were good times in English. Carolyn Strong, who enjoyed the class, recalled that with every line voiced their opinions. Steve Marulis recalled their Christmas party when everyone oozed zed, making the football players Christine Nagle, senior, recalls when they read "Love poem for Valentine's Day." Another student missed the best part of English was the "coming in" of girls to boys' 5.

Teachers in the Math Department challenged students to a race which to some seemed impossible. They crammed their brains with Algebraic properties, Theorems, Logarithms, Derivatives and Antiderivatives. Beginning Racers passed Math 1 and 2, Algebra, and Geometry. Some students became discouraged and frustrated, others lost interest and quit the race. Yet more students advanced in the race by completing Intermediate and Advanced Math. By completing Calculus, some students finished the long race. Different students had different reasons for taking math. Students who completed Calculus were highly motivated. John Eckert claimed he finished because "I'm into self-inflicted punishment." Mia Ashe said "Finishing Calculus helped prepare me for college, and besides my mother made me." No matter which math classes were taken or what the motivation for taking them was, all students were challenged and taught by some of the best math teachers.

Future business men and women prepared themselves for the competitiveness of the real world by taking business classes. Secretaries of the future took Shorthand, Office Practice, and Typing. Future bookkeepers and accountants prepared themselves by taking Business Math and Accounting. Through these various classes students were offered opportunities to prepare for the business world of tomorrow.

Social Studies and Foreign Language

Latin students roved back through time to study the language of the Romans. Mr. Webb held their interest by making the classes different from any they had ever had before. He also taught German. One of the Romance Languages, French was taught by Mrs. Norton who captured student interest by having them use French names in class. Spanish was taught by Mr. Luenberger and Mr. Gomez. Mr. Sartini kept his students up to date with his Channel TV News Quizzes. Mr. Eaton used visual aids such as posters, models, skeletons and replicas of monkey heads to help teach Anthropology to his class.

Three students took interest in the computer in the Basic Webb class. AGAIN.

During the year, Mr. Krull often saw his room. What was described in the newspaper, turned out to be a room with pink and white. All of the walls were a much needed color, either a light green. A number of students and teachers Mrs. James remained in the off-white color of her room, which was better than the pink. Robin Borden and Jeannie Gardner green and looked more like home while Mr. Ringwald's chemistry classes were the color they paint the inside of their classrooms. Mr. Ringwald main- tained his room, after all, institutions designed to meet objects.

Students thought that Industrial Arts classes were going to be run from the schedule because of lack of interest or diminishing funds, they erred. Enrollment for Mr. Henke's drafting and architecture classes jumped by one full class.

Advanced technology and increased color in video screen processing resulted in professional assignments for some students in Mr. Ecker's photography and video screen classes.

The Home Economics department suffered a loss of one staff member due to budget cuts. However, in spite of larger class size and lower operating funds, the quality of instruction continued to be excellent, providing students with realistic experiences for after graduation.

The busy inventiveness and creativity of students were challenged through the Fine Arts classes. Not only art and craft were taught, but drawing offered a year of exciting experience, too. Jewelry offered a true test of creativity. Perfection was attained by ceramics students who shaped and re-shaped clay. In any of the theater classes acting was taught and incisive performances given. Intermediate and Advanced Band members practiced for football games, parades, and competitions. Orchestra made beautiful music which deserved to be heard on K-BIG. Psalms and madrigals were superbly mastered by the Intermediate Choir, Concert Choir, and Chamber Singers. All of this creativity was summed up in the words of Skot Schuler, a senior, "The Fine Art Classes helped me develop my talents. I might not become famous, but you never know."

WATER POLO

Once again the Water Polo team had no opponents to surprise the league. They were League Champions led by seniors Jeff Scott, Aki Lippitt, Dan Zemmel, and Scott Biedermann. Water Polo was undefeated in league and had a 13 and 5 season record. Although Poly was a young team, it did pose the roughest league match. However, Poly won by a sizable margin. This enabled them to capture the league title and to represent the league in the "A" Finals. Although the team did not have a strong history of ending its season in "A" Finals, Scott Biedermann did. Although we started the year as underdogs, we proved ourselves and kept in the Poly tradition of a winning season.

Although Poly Water Polo team did not have a Senior Soph-Fresh team, it has eight Senior Soph-Fresh teams. Because their Soph-Fresh teams Poly JV and Soph-Fresh did not have a opponent when they did they often improved. The JV led by Mike Lynch, Jim Gatherum, and Andy Sawley were 72 for the year and the Soph-Fresh led by the seniors, John Githers were 62 for the year. Although we did not lose in league, the Soph-Fresh going undefeated.

Pride In Action

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions and activities related to the project. It emphasizes the need for transparency and accountability in financial management.

2. The second part outlines the specific steps involved in budgeting and forecasting. This includes identifying key areas of expenditure, estimating costs, and projecting future income and expenses.

3. The third part addresses the challenges faced by organizations in managing their finances effectively. These challenges may include limited resources, fluctuating market conditions, and complex regulatory requirements.

4. Finally, the document provides recommendations for improving financial performance. These suggestions focus on enhancing internal controls, streamlining processes, and fostering a culture of fiscal responsibility.

Ineffable!

The future holds promise for next year's Varsity football team. The Junior Varsity team had a 9-1 overall record, and a 5-0 Ivy League record. Coach Churchill states, "If the team continues to work hard, Poly football will regain the Ivy title."

During the early morning Perseus rally, the Freshman season had a 9-0 record. The football team now has a 9-0 record. There was no response from the Senior season. The Freshman football team had a 9-0 record and a lot of happy coaches. Led with a great staff and a lot of high-spirited players, they dominated the Ivy League. Coach Graves stated, "The team had no bad apples and the friendly atmosphere and hard work brought the 9-0 record that we have not seen since 1974."

As they do every year, the cross country squad continued to show the utmost devotion to their strenuous sport. Excluding the ones who were injured over the "course" of the season, the members arose at dawn each morning for sunrise practice. It paid off though for their regular season culminated with a dramatic win over Arlington that clinched the Ivy League title for the Bears.

In addition to their all out efforts, one of the best qualities of the team was their great sportsmanship. At every meet, not only did the team encourage the opposing team's runners, but even the parents of the Bears shouted words of confidence to both teams.

The parent participation was so greatly emphasized to the team that Coach Gary Hunt recorded how many family members showed up at each meet. The only way this year can be surpassed is if more students come out and support next year's team.

Under the guidance of Coach Bob Dushman, the Varsity Girls Volleyball team is looking forward to winning the Valley League Championship for the third year in a row. Their team spirit was hard to beat as their coach has found out.

Set by team captain, Kelly Obeso, Karel Davis and Ann Hubbard led their teammates. Esther Moron totaled up the points with her strong serve. This year team was the best ever. Karel Davis.

During the season, players who had been in the team for a while, such as Karel Davis and Ann Hubbard, were the ones who were the most experienced. The team was an excellent team and was a good one. They were the best ever.

The Varsity team had a good year. They played well and learned when they lost. They were each other. This experience will prove beneficial for the next year. Leading players, Stacy Hunt and Nancy Waters were named to varsity for their good experience for next year. They hope to have a more successful season next year.

The 1993 Varsity Softball team has earned the respect and admiration of the entire school community for a job well done. As a team, the players and coaches have worked hard to make the Varsity softball team a successful one. Softball is a team sport and this year the Varsity softball team has done a great job of working together.

Captain Robin Borden said about the team: "Every year the softball team seems to be injured. In three years we've had three coaches but the team managed to stick together in spite of it. Patty and Cathy Endo, Julie French, Jennifer Lowry, and I have played together since junior high, so regardless of our coaching staff we have had fun playing together."

Game, Set, Match

A smashing success! Once again, the tennis team captured another Ivy League title. With ranked players Julian Barham, and Benny Mascari, the team went undefeated. Team members were tough to beat, possessing such skills as power, agility, style, and precision. Dale West-Johnsrud summed up his feelings about fellow team members with, "We had a lot of talent, especially in singles."

The team started the season on resurfaced courts and with new coach Kelly Conway. The team never lost a match, captured the Intercollegiate Cup, and the C.F.A. Southern Section Championship in 1981. They never knew defeat, which they continuously practiced for. Julian Barham summed up the season with, "We were confident and we had good teamwork."

The team started the season by playing in two of Southern California's biggest tournaments, the Inglewood Invitational, and the La Brea Invitational. At the La Brea Invitational, Poly nullified last year's disappointment of missing the play off pools, by making a fine showing. After the pre-season matches, the team plunged into league competition, which proved to be very rewarding. The teams in the league were usually beaten by Poly but there were difficult matches. More De La Salle was the tradition in the league was our toughest competitor. stated John Diegelow. Diegelow also said. Because of lack of player height, this year's team depended a lot on defense. This was evident in the games but with the expertise of such experienced players as Kevin Bates, Pat Malone, Mark Ward, Bang Little, and Mike Sompayrac, the team scored the points needed to win most of their matches.

Baseball

After finishing a disappointing fourth place in 1981, the '82 Bears had much to prove. Under Coach Rich Graves, the team was almost totally refurbished with a new back of starters. Seniors Bob Mitsch and Jeff McCoy were the only returning starters. Aside from Ted Amidon, Dean Burdick, Richie Ortega, and Dale Teague, the '82 squad was filled with players from the '81 JVee team. Even though they had so many inexperienced players, the Bears exhibited great baseball know-how when critical situations arose. They kept it close to the vest. In many ways they played better than in the previous season. They played in a highly leveled league during the summer that all the JVee players began were. Graves' first period physical education class, which was mainly for prospective baseball players. As they did during practice, they put them through numerous situations in baseball situations which gave them valuable experience in, before the real baseball game. With a year of varsity experience, senior players admit '82 will be even stronger than the JVee team.

Most of the JVee players also played in the summer league as well as in the JVee period. They finished second in the JVee and are their best. Improve from the '81 '82. The JVee coach was Howard Boyer, who put the team through the same type of practices as the Varsity team. And his give Coach Graves encouraging prospect for future varsity teams.

One of the fastest growing sports in California is now making news at Poly. The Poly Motocross Team showed its power in meets this year at Corona Raceway. The team has earned a reputation as one of the toughest teams in the area. One of the most physically demanding sports in the world, motocross is a favorite activity among all the members. Team Captain Joe Rincon states, "We're working to get more recognition here at Poly." Many of the team members also race independently to enhance their skills. An other favorite activity which the team enjoys is the Supercross at Anaheim Stadium. The team worked down on the field and got to meet some of the world's best riders. Advisor Steve Koehler says, "It gives them a chance to meet the pros and to find opportunities to maybe turn pro themselves someday." The team is very helpful to the guys who run the races. So the motocross team continues to keep their tradition of excellence intact while experiencing life in the fastlane at Poly High.

With and excellent turnout at the beginning of the semester, the Gymnastics Team was full of promise. With the help of the returning veterans, the new members were able to quickly back up that special Poly style which propelled the team through many CIF competitions. With the active coaching of Mrs.

Snelgrove the team had a cartwheel-a-thon in order to provide money for new leotards and sweats. "Doing three hundred cart wheels gets a little tiring, but it's the only way we know how to make money," says Jennifer V. Greene, team member.

Every Wednesday afternoon the Poly 'Specialists' practiced at the Tava Bowling Lanes. Under the care and guidance of their coach Mrs. Kreigh, they prepared for their upcoming weekend tournaments. Ranked in 'A' division, the Bowling Team simply outranked their competition, statewide. The team had spirit and pride as being part of the Poly Bears' stated Mrs. James. This year they collected even more trophies for their individual accomplishments as well as for their team efforts.
